YOUR ACADEMIC JOURNEY

Whether your academic interests lie in the humanities, sciences, or business, studying in Shanghai under the guidance of world-class faculty, supportive academic advisors, and among Chinese and international classmates will equip you with the tools to thrive as global citizens.

In this session, you will hear about NYU Shanghai's academic approach from our Provost Joanna Waley-Cohen, learn about academic planning from an academic advisor and engage in a conversation between faculty and current students about what an NYU Shanghai academic journey can look like.

HEAR IT FROM THE STUDENTS

Does a move to China make you both excited and nervous? Wonder what it is like to live and study with students from over 70+ countries? Thinking about which clubs to join, what classes to take, where to get food, and on and on...?

We know you have a lot of questions and our student panelists have the answers - directly from their experiences. They were once in your shoes and have navigated the transition to China and NYU Shanghai. Hear from four different students with 4 different pathways on how they ended up at NYU Shanghai and found Shanghai to be their home.

10:00 PM

From day one when students are adjusting to the new environment to after they graduate and join the workforce, hear from our supportive teams in New Student and Diversity Programs, Health & Wellness and Career Development Center about the resources available to help you as you start your college journey and beyond.
