

Tenured/Tenure-Track Positions in Information Technology

NYU Shanghai (Shanghai, China) invites applications for tenure-track or tenured faculty positions in Information Technology, starting in the Fall Semester of 2025. We welcome candidates at all ranks. Applicants should hold a doctoral degree (or be ABD for Assistant Professor candidates) in Information Technology, Information Systems, Computer Science, Economics or related disciplines, and demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in IS-related scholarly research and teaching. Candidates for Associate and Full Professor positions should have an established record of outstanding scholarship, along with significant contributions to institutional service and development.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to NYU New York and other U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may in certain cases have the opportunity to spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applications must be submitted by November 5, 2024. Members of the search committee will be available to meet prospective applicants during the INFORMS Annual Meeting in Seattle, WA, from October 20-23, 2024. Applicants who wish to meet with the search committee are encouraged to submit their applications by October 15, 2024.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate statements of research and teaching interests (each no more than three pages), and electronic copies of representative publications. Additionally, those applying at the rank of assistant or associate professor (without tenure) should enter the names and email addresses of three references, who will be contacted to submit letters of recommendation.
